

ICT skill supply in Britain and Germany: current problems and future strategy

A half-day conference organised by the Centre for Economic Performance, e-skills uk and the Anglo-German Foundation

Date: December 11th 2003

Time: 10am – 1pm

Place: Centre for Economic Performance,
London School of Economics,
Houghton Street, London WC2A 2AE

- | | |
|-----------------|---|
| 09.30 – 10.00 | Registration and coffee |
| 10.00 | Welcome and introduction
Professor Lord Richard Layard, Director,
Centre for Economic Performance |
| 10.00 – 10.40 | ICT Skills in Britain and Germany: how firms cope
Speaker: Dr. Hilary Steedman, Centre for Economic Performance, London School of Economics and Political Science |
| 10.45 – 11.15 | Recent innovations in ICT qualification design:
implications for vocational qualifications and Modern Apprenticeship
Speaker: e-skills uk |
| 11.15 – 11.40 | Coffee |
| 11.40 – 12.05 | The supply of ICT skills in Britain and Germany:
public policy and implications for business
Speaker: Professor Karin Wagner, Fachhochschule für
Technik und Wirtschaft, Berlin |
| 12.05 – 12.30 | Modern Apprenticeship and Foundation Degrees:
progress and prospects (provisional title)
Speaker: Stephen North,
Department for Education and Skills |
| 12.30 – 01.00pm | Questions and discussion |
| 1pm | Buffet lunch in the CEP social space |

For more information please contact:
Jo Cantlay at the CEP j.m.cantlay@lse.ac.uk