ICT skill supply in Britain and Germany: current problems and future strategy

A half-day conference organised by the Centre for Economic Performance, e-skills uk and the Anglo-German Foundation

Date: December 11th 2003
Time: 10am – 1pm
Place: Centre for Economic Performance,
London School of Economics,
Houghton Street, London WC2A 2AE

09.30 – 10.00 Registration and coffee

10.00 Welcome and introduction
Professor Lord Richard Layard, Director,
Centre for Economic Performance

10.00 – 10.40 ICT Skills in Britain and Germany: how firms cope
Speaker: Dr. Hilary Steedman, Centre for Economic Performance, London School of Economics and Political Science

10.45 – 11.15 Recent innovations in ICT qualification design: implications for vocational qualifications and Modern Apprenticeship
Speaker: e-skills uk

11.15 – 11.40 Coffee

11.40 – 12.05 The supply of ICT skills in Britain and Germany: public policy and implications for business
Speaker: Professor Karin Wagner, Fachhochschule für Technik und Wirtschaft, Berlin

12.05 – 12.30 Modern Apprenticeship and Foundation Degrees: progress and prospects (provisional title)
Speaker: Stephen North,
Department for Education and Skills

12.30 – 01.00pm Questions and discussion

1pm Buffet lunch in the CEP social space

For more information please contact:
Jo Cantlay at the CEP j.m.cantlay@lse.ac.uk